

EXPERIMENTAL PROCEDURES (10%)
Clear and Concise Description
10 8		6 4		2 0
Procedure contains enough information that it is reproducible. Procedure conveys only necessary and relevant information.		Procedure is missing some critical information required for fully evaluating or reproducing the experiment. Procedure is wordy in some sections. Contains some unnecessary or irrelevant information.		Procedure is so vague that readers cannot begin to evaluate or reproduce the experiment. Procedure is verbose and contains large quantities of unnecessary or irrelevant information.	